To Exchange— Masterpiece for Steinway Grand

Cornelius Botke has generously donated one of his most interesting and beautiful etchings to the cause of raising money for the purchase of the new piano which the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts hopes to obtain.

This splendid work of art may be seen in the window at Cabbages & Kings. It is to be sold at auction to the highest bidder. All bids must be in by 6 o'clock in the afternoon of February 22. Give your name and the amount of your bid to Hobart Glassell, or send it to him by mail. No bids under the amount that some one may have already bid will be recorded.

The highest bidder will receive this beautiful etching and will be accredited with having given that much toward the piano as well.

There's a corner in your home or studio just yearning for this etching of Mr. Botke's.

"Come on. Let's go."

Bal Masque Big Event

Manzanita hall was a riot of color, a maelstrom of motion, and loud with music. It was the annual masque dance of the Manzanita Club.

Perhaps more than for any similar affair were efforts made to wear striking and unusual costumes, and as a result those who had in hand the awarding of prizes had no easy task.

The prize winners were: Mrs. Jean Dulout, best sustained character, lamp shade; Mrs. Harriet Whitney, best costume; Bert Guilford, best sustained male character, farmer; Joseph Blethen, best male costume.

There was a very large crowd both of local and of Monterey people. A circumstance that called for remark was that a number of old-timers who have not missed a Manzanita Club masquerade for years were not present.

Civil Service Examination

An examination for the position of clerk in the Carmel post office will be held in this city on March 3, 1923.

Service Examiners.

Senator Phelan's Travel Book

Yet another travel book and with it another apology. But former Senator James D. Phelan does not need to apologize for his book, "Travel and Comment," just issued, describing as it does the eleven-month view of the world by this famous native Californian, with his cultural and historical backgrounds. Neither does he need to apologize for the fact that it consists chiefly of a sheaf of letters written for the press while he was on his tour, since that on-the-spot viewpoint of the book gives it a breezy but authentic charm.

Million-Dollar Suitcase Lifted

There is an element of unusual boldness in the plagiarism with which Perry Newberry and Grace MacGowan are charging Christopher B. Booth.

They say that after appropriating their story he was candid enough to use as a title for publication, "It Looked Good to Him."

It will be remembered that Newberry and Miss MacGowan collaborated on a story which they called "Two and Two." It appeared in a popular magazine and is now coming out in book form with the title changed to "The Million-Dollar Suit Case."

But in a January magazine they came upon Booth's story, "It Looked Good to Him," and Newberry says they recognized not only the plot but whole paragraphs of text. Another alleged bit of facetiousness is the changing of the hero's name to Perry.

Newberry says the Authors' League will conduct the prosecution for them. He says the second magazine editor paid $1000 for the story and will be on the side of the prosecution.

Newberry continues: "Stealing another's story is a criminal act under the copyright law. If nothing more is done to him, Booth's career will be finished as far as writing goes. No magazines will accept his stories in the future. This is the second time I have had a story of mine purloined. In the first instance I was persuaded to let the matter drop. This time I will carry the affair into court, if necessary. Meanwhile I am in correspondence with my publisher, W. D. Stokes; with the Saturday Evening Post, and with the Authors' League, and they will decide whether or not to carry the matter into court. I am waiting Booth's explanation with a good deal of interest."

Search and Moss Score Triumph in Monday's Concert

In spite of cold weather and the prospect of catching cold in an insufficiently warmed hall, many faithful music lovers turned out to hear the Search-Moss concert at Arts and Crafts Hall last Monday evening. Their bravery won them rich returns. Frederick Preston Search and Frank Moss gave a program of modern music both intriguing to the intellect and satisfying to the emotions. They opened with the Strauss Sonata in F Major for cello and piano. Mr. Search played the impassioned adante with sincerity and deep feeling and the allegro with the brilliancy that it requires. The same deep feeling and richness of tone showed again when he played the haunting little Song of India by Rimsky-Korsakov.

Mr. Moss is so good an accompanist that it was almost a surprise to find that he is so fine a soloist. He chose to break ground with a sonata by Charles T. Griffes, an American composer, who unfortunately for America, died young. The sonata was played subtly to honor America, since Monday was Lincoln's birthday. One forgot that or anything else, listening, trying to understand Griffes' meaning. That Mr. Moss understood and interpreted with lucidity there could be no doubt. You felt somehow all the way through as an educated savage might feel if someone put the works, say of Kant, into his hands and demanded instant understanding. No one could judge such an interesting, such an extraordinary work on a first hearing. All that can be said is that it cries to be heard again and again.

Dohnanyi dominated both cello and piano in the last half of the program. His Konzertstück for the cello was played by Mr. Search probably for the first time publicly in America. It was beautiful from beginning to end and it was beautifully rendered. The same can be said of Passacaglia, the last of the three piano solos played by Mr. Moss. Dohnanyi is an Hungarian educated in Berlin. He is only beginning to be known in America and we are fortunate to hear of him so soon, and through the medium of two artists with such fine capacities for interpretation.

Child Welfare Bureau

Enthusiastic responses have been received from all sections assuring hearty support for Mrs. Josephine Rand Rogers' pet legislative measure to establish a child welfare research station. Parties are being arranged to attend a luncheon this afternoon at the Hotel Bellevue, San Francisco, in support of the measure, which has been introduced to the legislature by Assemblyman T. M. Wright.

A large list of brilliant speakers and permanent educators will grace the meeting, including State Superintendent of Public Instruction Will C. Wood, Dr. Olga Bridgeman of the U. C. psychological department, Prof. Louis P. Terman of Stanford university and others.

Watts Villa Nearing Completion

Contractor De Witt Appleton is making rapid progress on the construction of the Watts villa at Wildcat canyon, south of Carmel Highlands. While in the Orient, Mr. and Mrs. Watts acquired a number of colorful-tapestries and panels with which they plan to beautify the house. A carved door from China will give entrance to the sun porch. Beautiful grounds will surround the house.

Pine Cone's Log of Literature & Art

The London "Times" announces that the Rosenbaum Brothers of New York and Philadelphia have bought for about $1,000,000 portions of a famous library of Eighteenth Century French authors, and also translations comprising 6,000 volumes in the finest of binding, together with a collection of 3,000 drawings, illustrations and engravings of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries.

The authors include Voltaire, Fenelon, Racine and LaFontaine, and the artists, Boucher, Fragonard and Moreau. The entire collection was formed by Oiry Roederer, member of a châmpagne firm at Reims, France.

It had been in the famous Chateau of Reims for about a century until it was removed in 1914 just in time to avoid the German bombardment, which left the castle in ruins.

Again we quote from the Paris edition of the New York Herald:

"With a sensibility of a delicate order, Mr. Silva has modified his style in turning from one region to the other. Far from endeavoring to impose a personal formula upon the landscape before which he sets up his easel, he allows himself to absorb its peculiar essence. He believes in feeling at home beside a lily pond or in a picturesque bit of woodland before entering upon the mechanical part of his task. This method, or if one prefers, this philosophy, leads him to idealism, rather than realism.

"He observes everything, not to the end of reproducing the whole, but of distinguishing and developing what is most essential. He differs from the impressionists in that he believes that it is the permanent rather than the momentary aspect of things which is most interesting, and he joins hands with the classicists by his acceptance of their theory of suppressions and additions in the interest of more perfect harmony of line or color. He sketches rapidly and faithfully in oils, then enlarges and modifies the work in one or more subsequent editions. The result is neither an impression nor yet a version of photographic exactitude. One recognizes without difficulty the spot where the picture was painted, but one has no temptation to verify the precise position of individual trees or rocks."

Despite the antagonism of French producers, more American moving pictures are being shown in France than those of the rest of the world combined.

The French public continue to choose the California product in preference to the best their own movie industry can turn out. At the instigation to French film makers the Government increased the duty on imported pictures by 25 per cent during 1922, yet there were more than 300 of the best American films released in France.

A beautiful monument has just been finished and unveiled as a memorial to the veterans of the revolution against Spain which was going on during the Spanish-American War and which the Americans aided. It is situated on the outskirts of Manila, and is regarded as one of the most artistic and beautiful soldier's memorial ever erected.

John Barrymore has unbosomed himself of his ideas on Hamlet to Beauvais Fox in the New York Tribune, and he has some interesting observations to make on that touchstone character of the actor's ambition. He will shortly have distanced Edwin Booth's celebrated run of 100 nights at the old downtown Winter Garden, but report says he will soon close his run in the tragedy and go to Europe to see his wife and baby.

In future histories of the stage John Barrymore's name will loom large in estimation as one of the greatest interpreters of Shakespeare's tragic figure, this unhappy Prince of Denmark.

Several novels of Gene Stratton-Porter are to be filmed. For years she has resisted the temptations of fabulous offers for the screen rights to her popular stories, fearing that they would be garbled and suggestive incidents added to give the thrill that producers talk about. Mrs. Porter's stories are interesting and popular and clean, and the screen version will be different only in dramatic technique.

Seven boxing bouts are on the card at the Monterey Presidio next Thursday evening, Washington's birthday. A large number of Carmel fans will travel over the hill.

Mrs. E. M. O. Hammond, 77 years of age, a native of Quebec, Canada, and for about two years a resident of Carmel, passed away on Wednesday at her home here.

The Year

Forest Theater Selects Its Plays for the Summer

In the play contest conducted by the Forest Theater during the winter of 1922-3 over one hundred and twenty-five plays were received, exceeding last year's result by some forty odd. The plays received were not only more in number, but of decidedly higher grade, some twenty of them being remarkably good work, whether suitable for presentation or not.

As the Forest Theater, generally speaking, seeks to avoid one-act plays and plays with modern costume and prosaic settings, and as the one-act play and the play dealing with modern conditions are both very popular with our playwrights of the moment, the range of choice was still further reduced.

The board congratulates the discovery of a play which meets its requirements fully, "The Cradle," by Helen Coale Crew (Mrs. Henry Crew), of Evanston, Illinois, is described by its author as "a thirteenth century arras woven in three strips. St. Francis of Assisi and the Children's Crusade give her a theme which she has handled with skill, tenderness, inherent poetry and a surprising humor. To Mrs. Crew, by vote of the board, is awarded the prize of one hundred dollars, offered by the Forest Theater.

Provided suitable arrangements can be entered into, such as royalty and other matters, the big attraction of the summer at the Forest Theater will be the oriental play, "Hassan," by the English poet, James Elroy Flecker. It has just been published, although it was completed several years ago, just before the author's death. John Northgate Hilliard has been selected to produce the play, but so far his acceptance is in abeyance.

Carmel Chamber of Commerce Is Functioning Body

The regular monthly meeting of the Carmel Chamber of Commerce was held on Thursday evening. The secretary reported a membership of thirty-one to date, with prospects of a number of additions.

R. C. DeYoe, delegate to the peninsula publicity conference, reported on the functions of Monterey Peninsula, Incorporated, but the meeting took no action on endorsement, preferring a larger attendance before committing itself.

The secretary was directed to write to the county board of supervisors requesting that Carmel be given its pro rata of the county advertising fund, such as other incorporated cities in the county have been voted.

City Trustee T. B. Reardon asked for some expression of the chamber concerning what should be done with the parking or park space on Ocean Avenue—whether it should be platted, partly planted or left entirely for automobile parking. This matter, as well as the matter of endorsing or turning down the plan of Monterey Peninsula, also some action regarding a celebration of our concreted Ocean, will be taken up at a special meeting next Monday night.

The chamber went on record as in favor of the proposition to bring to Monterey the 1924 convention of the American Legion, and L. E. Gottfried was appointed a delegate to the body having the matter in hand.

The chairman reported that efforts to have an additional clerk authorized for the Carmel postoffice had been successful.

The regular monthly meeting night of the chamber was changed to the second Thursday in the month.

Members are urged to be present at the special meeting Monday night.

On this date in 1878 the first telephone exchange established in California was opened for business in San Francisco.

HOW OUR TAX BURDENS ARE DISTRIBUTED

The average cost to each resident in Monterey County will be $48.05 in taxes for the year 1922-1923, according to the statement issued by State Controller Ray L. Riley, whose department has been busy for some time compiling data on tax burdens. Monterey County's total tax bill for the year 1922-1923 amounts to $1,399,738.62. Estimating the population to be twenty-nine thousand one hundred thirty, the per-capita cost is $48.05.

According to Riley, the tax levy includes the general county levy of $831,598.28 and a special and district county levy of $383,072.72. The balance is made up of taxes for the city of Carmel amounting to $10,235.00; King City, $11,639.07; Monterey, $50,425.42; Pacific Grove, $39,029.59; Salinas, $72,053.74; Soledad, $1,684.80.

These amounts, according to Controller Riley, will be augmented by certain other receipts from different county sources and from moneys distributed to the different political subdivisions by the State, such as school moneys at the rate of $30.00 per pupil; motor vehicle moneys collected in the county, one-half of which is returned for use on highways.

SHOULD BE PASSED AND APPROVED

A bill to tighten the provisions surrounding the granting of probation, and to force paroled prisoners to at least do a sort of penance, has been prepared by Senator Osborne of Los Gatos.

Under the present law probationers are not often compelled to restore the damage they may have caused. This measure would require that offenders given probation must pay the costs of their arrest, trial and conviction, and pay the injured person for the damage done. If, in the judgment of the court, they are financially able to do so. If they are not so situated they would be required to make the payments in monthly sums.

"A prisoner who is given probation ought to have it impressed upon him that he is not innocent," declared Osborne, explaining his measure. "The youth who speeds in a car and wrecks another automobile would be more likely to remember his deed if, when probation is given him, the judge should order him to go out and earn enough to pay for the damage he has done."

"Offenders forget the judge's lecture all too quickly. They need the experience of doing penance to impress upon their minds the need for correcting their ways. Probation fails of its purpose if it merely lets the offender off and gets no adequate guarantee of better behavior in the future."

Military Honors at Ace's Funeral

Impressive military honors were paid to the late Captain Thorne Clarkson Taylor, at El Encinal cemetery, Monterey, last Friday afternoon. He had an enviable war record, being one of the first pilots trained in the American air service, and serving at the front in France with the 94th Aero Squadron, headed by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker. Taylor was an ace with five accredited planes, brought down in the Marne, St. Mihiel and the Argonne offensives. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre by France, and was decorated by General Hunter Liggett with the Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry.

At the request of Judge and Mrs. Thomas Taylor, who were unable to make the trip from Chicago, arrangements were made for the funeral by Mrs. Thorne Taylor and Taylor's aunt, Mrs. Harold Crane of this city. Friends of the young man, who served in the American Expeditionary Force, were present in uniform. Colonel John M. Jenkins and a party of officers from the Monterey Presidio and many friends heard the brief service read by Dr. Cutting of the Del Monte chapel. Overhead a flight of airplanes from Crissy Field flew in battle formation, and dropped flowers on the grave as a mark of respect to the timely passing of a gallant comrade.

Damages Are Nominal

Two good man and true, John B. Jordan and Enoch H. Lewis, climbed into the latter's Lizzie last Wednesday afternoon for a ride to Monterey. They reached their destination—but not in the Liz. She got bumped by a truck, turned over and the two passengers rolled out, Eu with an injured left hand and John with a sprained back. It will cost $20 to repair the car. Blame for the accident has not been fixed.

'THIS DAINTY BEDROOM AT LITTLE EXPENSE'

The dainty bedroom pictured here may be duplicated at little expense by any housewife who is clever with her needle. Pale green chintz scattered with apple blossoms drapes the packing-box dressing table, the black enamel bow-foot beds, and forms the window draperies. The black bench which may be bought secondhand, is upholstered with the chintz; the beds may also be bought secondhand and enameled. A shirring two inches wide with a cord in each edge is used across the tops of the windows, around the edge of the beds and the dressing table, and to cover the mirror frame. The dressing table top is covered with a piece of the chintz, over which ordinary window glass is fitted. The hand-braided rug is made of the scraps of the chintz with a deep border of black. The candlesticks and powder dish are of rose-colored glass and the candies and mirror cord are also rose.

There Will Be No Crowding

The only regular local election this year will be that of the Carmel Sanitary District, embracing all of Carmel-by-the-Sea and some adjoining territory. Three board members are to be elected, the only candidates for which are the incumbents, H. W. Askew, Thomas Morgan and T. W. Morgan Jr. The election takes place Monday, March 12.
